Fave queen, thorn or scarlet, thorn cuz sunny is my fave dragon ever! And in my opinion scarlets really funny. Least fave queen, wasp, when I heard wasp's name for the first time, first thing I thought was CREEPY.

Favorite: Queen Glory. Least favorite: Queen Scarlet, because she tried to kill my favorite and was totally, utterly, remorselessly, crazily evil. Underrated: Queen Moorhen.

@Fennec, really interesting analysis! Lots to consider there.

@KitCat, ooooooooh.

I love how much thought you all put into these questions! The queens are serious business, but also you clearly care about these characters and try to understand them. FanWings are the best.

All right, to be honest , I like diamond of the IceWings . At least she isn't a Nightwing jerk queen like vigilance. She just wants the best of her son . Even though she shows it in a bad way. My least favorite queen is vigilance. For Darkstalker sake , he makes the tribe stronger , enforces her army , and makes her a stronger queen. What does she do? Abuse the greatest dragon in the continent, make his girlfriend overwork and skip school for the job she got , try to Kill Darkstalker , and also wants to wipe out the tribe that inherited animus magic and passed it down to her tribe and sometimes she is a big fraud. She is a insult to Nightwings! In my opinion though, but yeah.

i just think that scarlet is underrated . Sure, she LOVES to brag , but I believe she has a good side too. She is fierce, strong, kind ( to some) , and the right amount of sassy, good amount of powerful, right amount of protective and cunning . So yeah, she might go overboard sometimes, but I have a little faith in her. That said , may I mention Darkstalker is awesome, charming, powerful, handsome, smart, loyal, and just plain does the right thing like all the most of his life? Because it is true. All hail King Darkstalker of the Nightwings!!

My favorite queen is Queen Glacier,
My least favorite is Queen Wasp,
I think both Queen Sequoia and Queen (or ex-queen) Scarlet are underrated, Princesses challenge the queen for the throne, but if the queen is killed by an outside force, war can start,
and
!!SPOILER ALERT!!
Queen Wasp is terrible. Queen Wasp lied to all of Pantala, killed off an entire species, and destroyed forest after forest of trees. She also abused her mind-controlling power to hunt innocent dragons (such as flamesilks and Blue), and locked flamesilk dragons just because they have a power they didn't choose to have.

My favorite queen is queen Glory, I think that the queen that I like the least would be queen Snowfall, and the one I think is most underrated is queen Moorhen.

The rules for succession are basically all the same in the 7 trides, only the current queen's most direct/closest female relative can challenge the her for the throne or inherit her throne upon her passing. However, only 1/7 tribes is known to not have their challenges of succession be to the death; this tribe being the rainwings who have a series of competitive games, sports and races with whoever gaining the most victories over the other then being crowned queen.

Spoilers!!!!

Queen wasp reminds reminds me a lot of Queen scarlet creepy, manipulative and not only power hunger but also a power hoarder.

P.S. I also have this feeling that the Queen Wasp Blue saw as a child could have been another one of her zombees, like the Librarian, that way she could manipulate her image, making sure that everyone will always see the biggest and scariest of the hivewings as their queen keeping them all in fear and submissive to her.

Very serious question: If you could follow the RainWing scheme to becoming a queen (but be queen of any tribe), would you do it? Why or why not?

1. My opinions on the Queens/king
The one that I hate is Scarlet, and my favorite is either Glory or Thorn, but what about Darkstalker? Does he count? He did become kings of the nightwings. If so he is the one I fear.
2. What I know about the succession of the tribes and my theories
I think that the icewing's succession process is most likely which princess is the highest in 'the Circle'. For the sandwings, skywings and seawings, we know, is which one kills the original queen. We know about the rainwings too, that they pick by going through multiple tests, which is the most peaceful of the succession. Now how did the nightwings pick? Did they do what most of them did, and make the princess kill the queen to become the queen? Or was it a hand-me-down of the crown? What about the mudwings? So far we know nothing about their process of succession as of now, because there has been only one book about them, and it barely talked about their culture, except about how little they care for their children.

Two things.

One: Darkwasp, Lunatail/Swordmoon, and whatever the ship name for Blue and Cricket is.

Two: Someone needs to make an animation where it's Queen Wasp singing Thriller, dressed like Michael Jackson, with her white-eyed zombies dancing in the background.

@sarah E : i do apologies if this is a odd thing to say but if someone died on these forums would they get a character in the book ( I am talking about hurricane ) sorry this is of subject I just have seen people's posts where they want a character for her. Also has anyone thought this yet ? If say queen wasp was killed what would happen would the leaf wings the silk wings and the hive wings become there own tribe again or would something bigger happen like a war or what if queen wasp had a secret one that was huge what if she Ashley found a way to keep clear sight alive and what if later she made a deal to give her to them i am just saying things are un predictable also I would not want to be the queen of any thing if I was a hive / silk / leaf / wing I would tell every one to get away from wasp and move or just be a guard and then throw the queen in the dungeon and has anyone thought about plugging there ears also I have a feeling that these are not the only islands on this planet
My favorite queen is non of them they all have flaws and all aren't good for there tribe for instants queen glory she seems to have the best way of working things out but how much damage did she do to get on the throne she killed dragons in the arena instead of stopping them she doesn't care for all of her people and doesn't under stand much about anything maybe these are just little flaws but if you read her book you can understand what I am saying honestly I would say a hybrid who was half of everything tribe ( a ever wing ) would rule all and know there names care for each one would not kill just see there points and under stand them you might find me a odd person to think this way but I always seem to see things in books that others don't so I am used to any compliment or any one else's thoughts of me.
Sarah E you are a wonderful person and everything one has flaws so please do reply to my questions

Long live the queens...?

indigodragon3660

My favorite queen is probably Coral, because she always keeps her tribe happy, well fed, and healthy. To the people who hate her because she locked up the dragonets in the beginning (minus Tsunami) and kept them prisoner, she was only trying to protect her tribe! What's wrong with that? My least favorite queen is probably Snowfall (the current Icewing queen after Glacier died), because when she finds out that Winter is still alive, she doesn't let him back into the tribe, and she forces him to be kicked out of JMA. I feel like Glacier, from what we've seen of her, wouldn't do that. As for the most underrated Queen, I would probably say Thorn, because it seems like everyone (on the forums, not the books) hates her, and I just don't understand why. I think she's a great queen.

As for Queen Wasp, I think she's AWESOME! She is making a great villain for the third arc. I mean, COME ON!?! Mind-controlling abilities? She's queen of the Hivewings AND Silkwings? She's a descendant of CLEARSIGHT, one of the GREATEST dragons of ALL TIME!?! To me, Tui REALLY knows what she's doing with this character.

Here's what I think about all the queens:
Queen Oasis: She's smart, and she knows lots of things, but she doesn't listen to her own logic, which is what got her killed and started the War of SandWing Succession.
"Queen" Burn: She's evil because she kills innocent dragons for fun, and she doesn't care about anyone, and she uses her subjects as playthings.
"Queen" Blister: She's twice as evil as Burn, but ten times worse because she's smart, and she can turn almost anything to her advantage, and she doesn't care what she does as long as she becomes queen.
"Queen" Blaze: She's not evil, but she would make a horrible queen because she's so stupid and overly trusting of others, and she'll do anything others tell her to do, because she's too busy paying attention to how shiny her scales are.
Queen Thorn: I'd say she's the perfect queen. She's as smart as Blister, but she uses it to help her subjects. She's also really good at fighting, but she only does it when she needs to. She's really kind, and she treats everyone equally.
Queen Lagoon: She's a decent queen, but she favors some dragons more than others, and she doesn't spend as much time on her dragons as she needs to.
Queen Pearl: She's generally a good queen, but sometimes she reacts too soon to problems, and she doesn't really use her common sense.
Queen Coral: She's a good queen too, but sometimes she overreacts, and obviously she's not that smart, since Blister can manipulate her.
Queen Diamond: She cares too much about being "acting like royalty," and she's too strict, plus she forces other people to do stuff like she locked Foeslayer in some test machine so dragons could kill her lots of times, and she forced Arctic to bring Whiteout back to the Ice Kingdom
Queen Glacier: She's a good and smart queen, but sometimes she can be too harsh.
Queen Snowball: She only cares about herself and she hates dragons without a good reason.
Queen Vigilance: She's a mostly fair queen but sometimes she overreacts without thinking it through Queen Battlewinner: She only cares about the NightWings and she'll go to any lengths to see to their well-being, and she's kind of rash
King Darkstalker: He has good intentions, and he only wants peace, but his version of peace means ruling all the tribes by fighting wars with them and taking really big revenges on dragons who only annoyed him a little, and using dragons as toys?
Queen Grandeur: She's wise, but she doesn't make for a good queen.
Queen Dazzling: Don't know
Queen Magnificence: She's very stupid, and very static, and she thinks everything's fine even when problems are staring her in the face.
Queen Fruit Bat: She's just a stupid cheater
Queen Splendor: Don't know
Queen Exquisite: She only cares about her title "Queen" and her sloths, and she's also a horrible liar and cheater
Queen Glory: She's a very good queen, but sometimes she needs help because she's so young (not that that's a bad thing, she'll get better)
Queen Moorhen: I don't know, but she seems like a good queen... I mean... at least she listens to reason...
Queen Scarlett: She's just evil. There's no better word to describe her. She loves the war so she can make innocent (Well... maybe not-so-innocent, but still...) dragons kill each other and so she can make challengers for the throne kill each other, and she also lied to Peril and "Ruby".
Queen Ruby: I really liked how she had the courage to challenge her mother and how she can enforce the law peacefully. She also stood up to other dragons who were mean to her. I think she will make a great queen.
Queen Monarch: No idea
Queen Sequoia: No idea
Queen Wasp: Just plain evil. She can mind control the HiveWings, so she forces them to obey her, and only her. She's related to the SilkWings, so she can kind of mind-control them, and she forces them to follow her too. She drove an entire race almost to extinction, and then she lied about why she did it. She destroyed all the forests and wildlife, and she basically took over all of Pantala. So yeah... evil...
